

ADVENTURE STARTS HERE! WHAT WOULD YOU DO IN SEDONA?

Sedona is one of Arizona's premier tourism, outdoor recreation, resort, and arts and cultural centers. At an altitude of 4,500 feet, Sedona escapes the desert heat of Southern Arizona and the mountain snows to the north, with either just a short drive away.

Let the Hilton Sedona Resort & Spa be your home base as you explore the unique destination of Sedona, Arizona and the natural and manmade wonders of Northern Arizona. The resort's suite accommodations provide the extra living space and amenities that will make a longer length of stay comfortable; like your home away from home.

The Hilton Sedona Resort & Spa is located at the gateway to Sedona's red rock country providing easy access to Coconino National Forest and the 200 miles of scenic hiking and mountain biking trails. Sedona, Arizona has been recently recognized as a Bike Friendly Community by the League of American Bicyclists. Desert trails wind through the red rock formations that include canyons, buttes, mountains, and creek beds as the variety of vegetation and wildlife create nature's stunning garden. The spectacular beauty will inspire the most reluctant of artists.

If you are not inclined to create art, you may prefer to view art. Sedona is one of the top art destination in the country with a flourishing community of artists with many showcasing their work in over 80 local galleries.

Sedona boasts a full calendar of openings, artists receptions, and workshops. The richness of Sedona's artist community and diverse galleries rivals Santa Fe and Scottsdale as an art destination.

As the stunning scenery and galleries nourish your spirit, the fine restaurants and wineries will nourish your body.

With a population of less than 20,000 people, the Sedona area offers an exceptional variety of dining options. There is international culinary representation with restaurants featuring Southwestern, French, Indian, Chinese, Thai, Japanese, Italian, Mexican and American cuisines. Sedona, Arizona and the Verde Valley is the state's fastest growing wine region.

The Verde Valley has similarities to some of the great wine producing regions in the world. The greater Sedona area offers twelve wineries and tasting rooms scattered along a scenic route that takes you by the Verde River to the historic copper mining town of Jerome. Print a wine trail map and explore on your own or book a wine tour with one of several local tour operators who provide excursions to Northern Arizona wine country.

Sedona is the perfect hub for visitors to Northern Arizona. The most popular activities and attractions are close by or an easy day trip away. After enjoying the sightseeing and outstanding shopping in the immediate area, stay a little longer and plan day trips to the surrounding National Monuments, State Parks and the attraction that is on everyone's bucket list, Grand Canyon National Park. There is truly something for everyone with over 100 top things to do in the greater Sedona area. The resort's adventure concierge would be happy to help you plan your stay.
